

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary just days before the general election and not follow up with a pro-Kerry program to even out the playing field is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. Sinclair uses public airwaves free of charge and so should serve the interest of the public. And not just the interest of one particular party or candidate. Sinclair should also not be permitted to force all its local stations to air the anti-Kerry program. Local stations should make airing decisions based on local concerns. Thanks
